Who Can They Be?

On the current of society news there is floating just now the spiciest morsel of society gossip that people have discussed for many a day. The story comes from Crab Orchard, and the courier who brought it to the town folks is willing to vouch for its solidity. Here in Louisville there dwells a fleshy widower who is an ardent swimmer. Once he was a turfman, with a proud, prestige and a blue-grass farm. These luxuries, however, were all swept away by financial reverses, and then the portly turfman joined the church and devoted himself to a lecture. Again he failed, and very recently he has been engaged in the holiest of all occupations--soliciting subscriptions and writing thoroughbred editorials for a sporting paper. He is large, but he is lively. He isn't beautiful, but he has winning ways, and in the parlance of the vulgar, the old man occasionally "catches on" among the girls. Let us give him his military title and call him "the General." It seems, according to the story from Crab Orchard, that about three months ago the General was at Paris, Ky., working up the interests of his beloved sporting paper among the blue-grass people. While there he was introduced to a beautiful girl from Crab Orchard, and very speedily the susceptible old gentleman lost his heart, as he had done under similar circumstances something less than a million times before. He laid siege to all the fair damozels' affections, and apparently the young lady wilted. The General wilted some more and then both of them wilted. An ardent courtship was the result, and when the young lady--who is high bred and rich and very pretty--returned to her home at Crab Orchard, gossip said that the General was her affianced husband. At all events the genial old gentleman seemed to think that he had an impression, and it wasn't a great while before he called to see the young lady at her home. She received him kindly, and rode him about in her phaeton. It is unnecessary to say that the genial General was delighted. As time passed he visited Crab Orchard quite frequently, and in that part of the country it was very generally understood that he had engaged the young lady's hand in marriage. In fact, nobody doubted this was the true situation of affairs, and not long ago the General wrote to his associate editor in Louisville that he expected to climb the golden stair of matrimony ere the winter had passed and gone. Thus it was known, or at least believed, that there was to be a fashionable and remarkable wedding at an early day--a veritable romance of May and December. But there is many a slip 'twixt the cup and lip. About two weeks ago the General visited Crab Orchard again, this time, it is said, for the purpose of bringing away his bonnie bride; but, alas! how rashly was the cup of happiness knocked from his lips when the young lady closed up her house and refused even so much as to see him. Thus the old courser was shut out in the first heat, even after he had turned into the home stretch at a winning pace. So goes the story from Crab Orchard, and in that part of the country nothing else is talked about. The young lady's reasons for thus changing her determination have not been made public, and it is said that the General didn't wait to ask for an explanation. He simply packed up his valise and retired from the scene of his love dream in an all broken up condition. He is one of the cleverest and most popular gentlemen in Kentucky, and his friends will regret this little setback. The General is too good natured and light hearted to care much about it, however. [Sunday Argus.]

A country gentleman, walking in his garden, saw his gardener asleep under an arbor. "You idle dog, you are not worthy that the sun should shine on you." "I am truly sensible of my unworthiness," answered the man, "and therefore I laid myself down in the shade."

Mr. James A. Clark, Louisville, says: "I have been troubled with indigestion, and have been greatly benefited by Brown's Iron Bitters."

Young Ladies, Beware of the Drummer.

"A beautiful young girl, neatly dressed and of modest deportment, was observed this morning at the Union depot, waiting a train on the Dayton & Michigan road, for Toledo. She had been living at the Orphan's Home at Xenia for several years past, but having arrived at the age of sixteen she was discharged under the rules by which the Home is governed. She was on her way to relatives in Michigan, and had purchased her ticket via the Dayton & Michigan in order to connect with the Canada Southern. The fact that such a young and innocent looking girl was traveling alone on such a long journey attracted the attention of the ticket agent and a policeman at the depot, who resolved to kindly watch over her while here. Nor were their precautions in vain, for it was not long until a drummer of self-confident airs and bewitching manners entered into conversation with her, and when the Toledo, Cincinnati & St. Louis train for Toledo arrived he informed her that that was her train for Toledo, and that as he was going to Toledo also he would escort her on her journey. The officer, who had been watching his movements all the time, waited until he had taken the girl into the train and was in the act of sitting down beside her. Then seizing the man by the arm he shoved him back, and explained to the affrighted girl that she was on the wrong train. The fellow who had so unscrupulously been attempting to victimize the innocent girl was too cowardly to make any excuses or explanations, and was well satisfied to go into another car to escape the scorn of the indignant passengers." [Dayton Special.]

A SHARP GAME.--Some time ago a moonshiner, who had a lot of contraband whisky on hand, approached a man in this city, who was keeping a saloon, and quietly but carefully let him into the secret, and finally sold him a barrel of the stuff. It was delivered in due time and carefully rolled into the cellar of the saloonist. The moonshiner then announced that he was ready to receive the money for the liquor, when the saloonist coldly informed him that no money would be paid him; that the liquor was "wild," belonged to nobody, but would be sold over his counter and he would pocket the money. He further advised the moonshiner to "skip" off home and drop the matter, and threatened to inform the government officers. The moonshiner skipped, but the story has gradually leaked out, but the story has gradually leaked out, but the story has gradually leaked out. [B. G. Democrat.]

At Winchester, Texas, a ten-year-old boy met with a singular death a few days ago, by being packed in a bale of cotton. He fell into the press, which is run by machinery, and was covered by the cotton, which prevented any cries from being heard. After the cotton was baled and rolled out of the press some of his clothes were seen. The ties were cut and the boy found in the bale, but strange as it may seem, no bones were broken, and the body was neither mangled nor bruised--only a slight bleeding at the nose. Had not some clothing protruded from the bale he would have been sold with the bale.

It is stated that in some parts of Africa there is but one missionary to 2,000,000 natives. Unless the "possum crop is very large some of the poor heathen must be obliged to go hungry to bed pretty often. It is hoped that they have enough red flannel night-caps to go around. A heathen without a red flannel night-cap is a sad spectacle, and the mere contemplation of such a picture should induce little boys to put all their pennies in the missionary box instead of spending them for taffy on a stick.

An English authority says that the chances are 500 to 1 against claret being good, or claret at all. The safest way is to call for beer--and throw it out of the back window. No matter how much the beer may be adulterated, it will not hurt a man if he follows this plan.

It is understood that General Chambers will be a democrat till the end of this Congress, to which he claims to have been elected as a democrat. His republican engagement does not begin until 12 A. M., March 4, 1883.

One of the greatest advantages that the Masonic order offers to every one who becomes a member is that he stands a chance of becoming the oldest Mason it he lives long enough.

Mr. James Hagey, Louisville, Ky., says: "Brown's Iron Bitters greatly benefited me when suffering from neuralgia."

Beer a Deadly Drug.

Beer is pronounced the most fatal to human life of all intoxicating drinks. A short time ago one of the largest and most conservative life insurance companies withdrew from business in Indiana on the discovery that the deaths in that State exceeded the tables of mortality. The President of the company proceeded to make a detailed investigation, and in his report he asserts that beer-drinking is carried to great excess in three or four counties, and that in those where the unexpected losses of life occurred. General statistics of life insurance show that in Ohio, where the consumption of beer is very great, deaths average sixteen in every thousand of the population; in Kentucky and Tennessee, where more whisky than beer is used, the death rate is eleven in one thousand, while in Canada the drinker confines himself almost entirely to whisky, the deaths average but six in one thousand. The moral of this is not that whisky is a healthy drink, for all kinds of liquors make frightful inroads upon longevity. Cases apparently to the contrary are quite exceptional. These facts have more and more claimed the attention of the largest life insurance companies, and the result is almost inevitable that they will be obliged to make stringent provisions in their policies relative to the matter. [Rochester Herald.]

"My father," said Glibbo solemnly, "was more sensitive to colds than any body I ever knew. The slightest exposure gave him a cold." "That must have been very disagreeable." "Indeed it was. He never could sit near a draft for a minute without catching cold. I remember on one occasion he was sitting in the office of a friend, when all at once my father began to sneeze. He insisted that there was a draft in the room. Every effort was made to discover where the draft was, but in vain. The doors and windows were closed, and there was no fire-place; but my father kept on sneezing and insisting that there must be a draft in the room--and so there was." "Where was it?" "In an envelope on the table, and it was only a little draft for $3.40."

Stories of faithful dogs abound, but few writers ever give the faithful master any credit. Hence this little thing from Greece: "A dog fell overboard from a steamer. The Captain refused to stop for anything short of a drowning man. 'You will stop for me, of course,' said the gentleman, who leaped overboard. Of course master and dog were both saved."

One day this week we stepped on the platform scales of one of our coal dealers, and asked to be weighed. The dealer said, "Why, certainly!" and called to the man inside to take the weight. And the man thought it was coal he was weighing, and shouted back the weight, "Six hundred pounds!" [Ex.]

A good old Quaker lady, after listening to the extravagant yarns of a person as long as her patience would allow, said to him: "Friend, what a pity it is a sin to lie, when it seems so necessary to your happiness!"

"Convict this man of being a gambler?" said the Texas Judge. "I won't hear of it. He's an infant in cards! Why I beat him out of $120 last night--when I was pretty drunk, too."

ROGERSVILLE, TENN., Dec. 16th, 1882.
Dear Sisters:
Many thanks for your kindly giving me a different place in your columns and, in a manner, promoting me for being so close to the "personals." I stand a better chance of being read by the "many." And not further to waste your space let me resume my narrative, and tell you what has happened.

We left Tazewell at 8 A. M. and drove through a pouring rain until noon, soon getting uncomfortably wet, regardless of waterproof, so called. Afterwards it turned cold and tried to freeze the water into us. Altogether it was the most uncomfortable I ever took. The Lord took care of us, and we suffered no ill effects. Reached Sneedville after 8 P. M. and soon were installed in Mr. Campbell's Hotel. There we came to the determination that we would separate, for all together we could not do very much good, as we only were able to preach twice in three days, if each took his turn instead of twice a day as we are doing now. So Garver stayed in Sneedville, Barnum went to St. Clair and I, with Palmer ("Sankey") came to this place, 23 miles from S. I left all our baggage in Sneedville, including the Baby Organ, and taking each a small grip sack, we started out to walk to Rogersville, and we did it. Bro. Underwood--a quondam book agent from Kentucky, whose acquaintance I made in Pineville a year ago, turned up in Tazewell, as agent for "Oligraphs" and did us several kind turns as he had opportunity. The Lord sent him to S. with his pictures, the day before we started, and he was going 12 miles on our way, so he offered to carry our large valises that far. So we started and he was a queer looking figure, on a horse scarcely larger than himself, with two packages of pictures about two feet square, strapped pannier-wise on his saddle, and our valise in front of him with our overcoats piled on top of it he looked as if "Texas, or bust" might be his motto. His kindness though, compensated for any lack of grace in his turnout. At the River, Clinch, he rode across and then poled a dug-out erratically across to us, in which we embarked and barring an imminent fear that our dug-out might turn out a spill-out, got safely over. Going up the mountain on the other side we saw a novel sight. A stream rising near the top of the mountain in its downward course, turned successively a half dozen mills, being led to each by a race until an elevation of twenty feet allowed it to pour over the top of a wheel of that diameter. How a stream can burst out of a mountain top, gets me.

To proceed. We tramped on merrily, trusting to the Lord to send along a wagon which would take our baggage to R. for us, before we got to where Bro. U. was to stop, and after eight miles we overtook one, which for 40c. consented to carry it over. So we piled overcoats and all into it, and felt the difference in our pedestrianism immediately. Four miles further we left the road and went to a farm-house which Bro. U. recommended as a good place to get dinner. Found it so, indeed, when our host told us that "he never charged preachers any thing." Praise the Lord. There we left Bro. Underwood (something of a Bro. Nath to us), and cutting across country to regain the road, soon settled our dinner by climbing one mountain after another and the worst I ever tackled. In the road at last, we left the miles behind rapidly. Passed through "Wart Gap," why so named deponent saith not, by a very good road which zigzagged up the face of the mountain, and ditto down the other side. Five miles from R. we passed immense quarries of the famous Tennessee marble, unlike any other in the world, which is shipped from here all over the country. It takes a beautiful polish, and is of a lovely brown, thickly veined with crystal. At last we came in sight of our destination, as we surmounted the last hill, and found it a nice looking town of about 700 inhabitants. Our feelings were mixed, for on our road we had heard that Synod was to commence the next day and about 100 Presbyterian ministers were expected! We were in the hands of the Philistines as it were, but were trusting the Lord to carry us through all right, so we marched upon the tower and put up at the hotel, where a good night's sleep set us all right. Continued next week. W. C. BARNES.

DORSEY, the star route thief, is publishing large budgets of letters from Garfield and others to show how highly he was held in the estimation of the late lamented President, and they do show that he was considerably cheek-by-jowl with him. They further show that Garfield was possessed all during the canvass with intense anxiety as to the result of the election and that he was in for almost any means to secure his victory. In one of his letters to Dorsey, he makes this suggestive point: "From twenty to thirty thousand voters of Indiana are members of the denomination of Deities and at least half of them are Democrats. A quiet but very earnest movement, wholly outside the State committee, has been organized and has been vigorously and judiciously pushed with the strongest probability that at least two thousand five hundred changes of votes in our favor will result. This shows that he worked his religious connections for all they were worth and that he did so. A good many things have transpired since his decease that show that Garfield, to say the least, was not so good and great as his eulogists have pictured him.

We are glad to observe that a bill to pension the Mexican soldiers has been agreed on by the proper committee and that it is likely to become a law as soon as it is reached. These old veterans are fully as much entitled to pensions as the soldiers of the late war, if not more so, and the fact that they have been denied it so long is far from being creditable to the party in power, who claimed that they would not vote for such a bill because Jefferson Davis would be a beneficiary. This was small, mean and contemptible, but it was an excuse which the new bill kills by proposing to exclude Mr. Davis from the benefits. He doesn't need it and does not want it, so let the bill pass so that justice may be done the old fellows that are fast passing away.

The Louisville Commercial is again looking into that report of pardons ordered by the Legislature of the Governor, but finds that it is in the hands of a private party who claims it as his own property. It further says that Blackburn swore that if the public printer dared to print it he should never receive a cent for it. There is great rottenness to be unearthed at Frankfort and we trust that the Commercial will keep Joe Eakin noising until he exposes it all and "smokes the rascals out."

The Supreme Court has decided that the law under which Gen. Curtis was convicted and sentenced in New York to pay a fine of $1,000 and be imprisoned for one year for collecting political assessments in New York, is constitutional and his petition for a writ of habeas corpus has been denied. Now let Hubbell and Mahone be tried and convicted. It is not right that the little minnows should suffer and the big fish get away entirely with the bait.

A CALL has been made by the Chairman of the State Central Committee for that and the Executive Committees to meet in Louisville, Jan. 10, to fix a time and place for holding the democratic State Convention to nominate a candidate for Governor. It is thought Louisville will be named as the place and the 22nd of February as the day for the business.

OUR dear old governor has been snubbed. He issued a requisition for Col. N. A. Fitzgerald, of the Pension Bureau at Washington, who is charged in Kenton county with forgery, but Chief Justice Carter declined to recognize it. The Gov. should call out his militia.

THE country will be delighted to know that Mr. and Mrs. Scoville have kissed and made up and that the case against her for larceny has been stricken from the docket. Now let us all forget the whole Guiteau family and enjoy Christmas to its fullest extent.

A BILL to provide a two year's extension on whisky in bond is meeting with much opposition in the Senate. It is claimed that many fortunes will be lost unless something is done for the whisky men.

—Hon. James Lyons, member of the Confederate Congress is dead at Richmond, Va. He was 81 years old.

—A damage suit for $10,000 has been brought against W. C. Owens at Somerset, for killing Jasper last year.

—The two medical students and their colored assistants, who were arrested in Richmond, Va., while attempting to rob a grave, were each sentenced to six months imprisonment.

—The heaviest wind and snow storm for fifty years has prevailed along Newfoundland for forty-eight hours. Twenty-two vessels were wrecked in Green Bay. Great loss of life is feared.

—The Central Courier and material at Nicholasville is to be sold at commission-er's sale on the 30th inst., to satisfy a judgment of $502.40. We hope Bro. Owen may be able to raise the wind. His is too good a paper to die for that small amount.

—The bill to sell the Soldiers' Home property at Harrodsburg, has passed both Houses.

—The net earnings of the Chesapeake & Ohio R.R. have been at the rate of a million and a half dollars per annum during the last six months, and a rise in the value of its securities is predicted.

Mr. J. E. Lynn Declines.
[To the Editor of The Interior Journal.]

STANFORD, DEC. 21, 1882.—In a late issue of your paper my name was suggested as a suitable man to represent our county in the next General Assembly. I appreciate the confidence and esteem in which I am held by my friends, and believe this would insure my success should I consent to make the race, but in justice to myself I must decline in favor of others more qualified and more deserving. Respectfully,
J. E. LYNN.

LINCOLN COUNTY.

Hustonsville.

—The mill works are progressing rapidly. It bids fair to be a grand improvement.

—The young folks are busy preparing for their musical-dramatic entertainment on the 28th. Hope they will be encouraged.

—Billy Williams (our West End Jay Gould) is superintending the planting of telephone poles in the direction of Stanford.

—John S. Goode bought the Sharp farm from J. H. Prewitt, 47 acres, for $4,300, or $300 advance on what Prewitt paid Sharp.

—ANOTHER PISTOL DISASTER.—Tuesday Pete Holmes (col.) laid his pistol on a shelf at his brother-in-law's, Ben Farris, and left the room. A girl of the family, when the pistol was discharged, the ball entering the brain of a little child of Farris on the opposite side of the room.

—Let me congratulate you on the beauty and vivacity of your last pair of twins—I mean the double number of your petted progeny, the JOURNAL. I beg leave also, to shake hands, figuratively, with the "Boss Old Timer." He and I were boys together, and with the exception of Craddock are the only survivors of a buried age. While "Old Mortality" lived we had our contemporary, but his premature taking off us desolate. A cheery Christmas to you and yours, Mr. Editor.

CASEY COUNTY.

—Our Circuit Court glides smoothly along. Hon. B. M. Burdett makes a good Judge.

—Last Friday morning at 8 o'clock Miss Laura Coffey died of consumption. She was in the morning of life, just in her 20th year. At the age of eleven she joined the Christian Church and has ever since that time lived a Christian life and been a shining light in the Church and Sunday-school to which she belonged. All who ever knew her loved her and looked upon her as one of the purest Christian women that they had ever met. Her friends all rest assured that she has gone to live among the angels in a better land than this. She was buried at the cemetery just above town beside her father. Eld. B. F. Branson officiated at the grave.

BROTHER BARNES' CIRCULAR.

HUGSON RIVER R. R. en route to New York City.

Dear Friends: I write this message to you as I dash along the river's brink, at high speed—type of life's journey, so soon to bring up at the last station, where we shall all take our places for Eternity. I write the terminus full in view. Will you listen to me? I write for Marie and myself. We have but one heart and voice in this address to our old and new friends.

You know well the manner of our life these six years past, how that, with one desire—to preach and sing "the truth as it is in Jesus"—our purpose, to yield all that we have and are, in holy consecration to His loving service; and one hope—that we may "finish our course with joy, and the ministrations committed to us by the Lord Jesus."

To this end, without intermission, or what men call "rest," we have by the Lord's grace, pursued "the even tenor" of this way, blessed, as you all know, beyond the highest expectations of ourselves or others—"exceedingly abundantly above what we asked or thought." To the Lord we give all the praise, as we set up a grateful Ebenezer—"Hitherto hath the Lord helped."

We are now about to enter on the 7th year of this campaign, in earnest hope that it will culminate in usefulness and truthfulness to the other six, as the seventh ocean wave overtops all its predecessors in strength and volume. We fully believe the Lord will do this for His own glory if we are as true to Him in the wider field to which He has called us, as in the limits of our native State.

Six years ago, almost to a day, obeying a call as clear as Abram's or Paul's, we left Chicago, where Mr. Owsley had just built a new chapel at large expense, and settled us in a house newly furnished from cellar to garret, and came to Kentucky to labor for the Lord among those of our own household, telling, first of all to our "Kinsfolk and friends, what great things the Lord had done for us."

Now, obeying still a call not to be mistaken, and still "wondering with great amazement" that the Lord should thus use us, we have "come out from our kindred and our father's house, into a land we knew not," only knowing Him who led us by the hand. Now we can only hear one command—"Go into all the world and preach my gospel to every creature." We "verily thought" when we began work under this second call, that we should go on, as our fathers, using the same methods and following the beaten track. We forgot, as David did when called to fight the Philistines, that the Lord does not repeat Himself, but that our faith may ever find new fields for exercise, commands to wait for the "sound of a going among the mulberry trees," instead of the familiar motto of attack "as aforetime." Now, therefore, we seem called upon to labor in a perfectly independent way. We have faithfully and patiently tried working in the groove of ordinary church methods, on a call from this or that pastor. In every case, of late, with marked failure in results. Slow, perhaps, to learn the lesson the Lord was teaching us, yet now, prompt to act that it is learned, we propose, henceforth to work independently of all church organizations and pastors. Not, therefore, imputing blame to any, nor yet dreaming of opposition to any (a thousand times "No!") but lovingly, as of old, with transparent fidelity, striving to build up, as we find, and not pull down, we propose in future, by God's grace, to work outside church-edifices and church order. It is a fact, not to be denied for a moment, that the "masses" will not darken a church door. For some reason, the church has lost its grip upon the world, and now what is left is to go where we can get hold of lost men. "In the highways and hedges" is the "supper" call, and, as we surely believe we are at the "eventide" of this dispensation, it behooves us to "go out quickly" and "compel them to come in," that guests to the feast be not wanting. "The world is rocking on a worn-out axle," and in another generation it may be too late. We may not stand upon ceremony now. Too much is at stake. Where the sheep are, is the shepherd's place. We find them, uniformly, far away from stately church doors, and we aim to take men as we find them. "With hostility to none—charity to all," as Francis Murphy has it, we wish to go out after the lost sheep and bring them in. In public halls and places of resort we shall find them by the thousand and hope to gather them in. But this requires money and much of it. To advertise by hand-bill and poster and newspaper, so that no hour of time be lost, waiting for the news to slowly creep out as in the past, will take what I now wish you to give—money. We wish to utilize every advantage the Lord puts in our way, as He would direct. If I had $10,000 I could use it wisely and well. O, that I had that sum now!

Just a few points to make all clear, and anticipate questions naturally arising even in unscrupulous minds. 1. The fund we wish to raise through you, though wholly under our control, and unreservedly placed at our disposal, will go directly for the work of the Lord, and not be used by us for family expenses. Any sums thus temporarily employed, as the Lord may direct, to be replaced with scrupulous fidelity, and the accounts kept inviolably separate. Do not think, dear friends, we are asking personal support. Not a dollar will go for that unless you specifically assign your gift for that purpose. 2. We ask no one to give who thinks he is unable to minister designs of self-appropriation, in thus asking gifts for the Lord. No, dear friends, the blessing of trusting the Lord directly for "daily bread" is too great to forego, for any consideration. If we have not earned your confidence enough, in these six years, to induce you to trust us with the faithful disbursement of your gifts, then we ask you not to give. 3. We only ask those to give who do it lovingly and cheerfully, "without grudging," and because they love us for the "work's sake," as well as for our own. We do not undervalue personal friendship or affection, but want this to be a consecrated fund, that the Lord can consistently bless every dollar of it. He "loveth a cheerful giver." 4. We send to each place, rapidly as possible, a little memento of this transaction for the Lord, in the shape of a slip with our acknowledgment of your loving gift, and another to be returned to, and preserved by you, as memoranda. 5. We will place the matter of collection, in each place, in hands, where we think, the task will be cheerfully undertaken, and we ask any one requested by such person, to aid in the matter of sharing this burden, as if we had directly appealed to them. Simple economy of time prevents corresponding with more than a single party in each place. 6. In places remote, it may not be possible to get the printed slips promptly to hand at the time mentioned above. Let not the failure in exact time deter any from giving. 7. Let the gift, as nearly as possible, be a "Christmas gift." Give us a "merry one, as never before. And here, beloved, we leave it with you, as in the presence of the Lord. If you love your Savior, "come up to the help of the Lord against the mighty." If we have any personal claim on you in love and gratitude, for service lovingly rendered in the past; if we have been instruments of blessing to you or those you love, let that claim find expression and be fully cancelled by prompt aid in this crisis of the work. If you do not appropriately tell "in very deed," how you appreciate the love of Him who for us all, was born in Bethlehem, send this Christmas gift to help proclaim the good news to others. If you believe this gospel of love we preach and sing, is the remedy for the world's sorrow and unrest; if you think it the antidote to Ignorance and every other "ism" that afflicts this "tempest tossed" humanity, then make us, we beseech you, your faithful missionaries to proclaim it far and wide. You can not leave your home to do it, but we can, and now stand ready (O, how gladly), to go to "earth's remotest bounds" with the good news. "We are ready to go down into the pit; will you hold and lead us from the rope?" So asked one of old. So ask we to you.

May love's appeal be not in vain. Ever in Jesus affectionately.

MARIE S. BARNES.

LANCASTER.

—Monday is County Court day.

—John W. Miller is having his hotel remodeled in part.

—An effort is being made to build a plank walk from Dr. Price's Danville street as far as the limits of town.

—Mr. R. L. Hubbell, of Lincoln, sold to Dr. C. L. Caldwell and J. W. Smith, of Barren county, a black jack, four years old for $700.

—No one has announced himself as a candidate for representative in this county yet. Several gentlemen are spoken of on the democratic side.

—A bomb exploded by some unknown parties broke out 20 panes of glass in the Clerk's office windows and did other damage. The Marshal was absent.

—Now is your time to buy cheap goods. I want to close out by Jan. 1st. Don't fail to call and get bargains when goods must be sold. I must have what is due me by Jan. 1st. Geo. A. Feathers.

—Mr. R. W. Lillard has made a move in the right direction and had the shed in front of his store torn down. It would make our town more attractive if a few more of them were taken down.

—Judge Geo. Denny is at Liberty this week attending Court. Messrs. Sam Anderson and Hunter Irving, who have been attending Commercial College at Louisville, returned home last Saturday.

—Hemphill & Voss are selling out their stock of dry goods, &c., at auction. We understand that Mr. Walden will quit the business and Mr. Hemphill continue with a new stock of goods after the 1st of January.

—Cyprus Daily's team became frightened at something on the Lexington pike, near Mr. H. O. Sutton's and ran away, breaking up the wagon to which they were hitched, considerably. They ran about three miles.

—The following marriage licenses were issued from the Garrard County Clerk's office during the past week: Hugh Roberts to Miss Lucy E. James; J. F. Holzclaw to Miss Lucy Pettit; Mose Ray to Miss Barthelett Hurt.

—Married at the residence of J. Wesley West, in this place, Wednesday the 20th inst., Geo. H. Lane to Miss Clara Hackley, both of this county. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. R. Peoples. The young couple have our best wishes for their future prosperity.

—W. O. Bradley, as Ex'r. of R. M. Bradley, sold, Monday, 352 acres of coal land in Laurel county, at public auction, Messrs. Geo. Denny, Sr., W. E. Walker, Thos. Palmer and H. E. Kinsane, because the purchaser had $5000. The general will organized a company for mining coal. The land lies immediately on the Knoxville branch of the L. & N. R. R.

TESTIMONIALS OF LINCOLN CO. FARMERS!

THE ALBION
HARROW, CULTIVATOR & SEEDER.

Three First-Class Implements Combined in One.

STANFORD, KY., Oct. 31, 1882.

GEO. D. WEAREN.—Dear Sir:—The Albion Spring Tooth Harrow, Cultivator and Broadcast Seeder purchased of you is all you claim for it. I am well pleased with my purchase. As a Harrow and pulverizer it is the best I have ever seen; as a Seeder, I would not exchange for any other, and I am also confident that it will prove valuable as a Cultivator.

MR. GEO. D. WEAREN.—Dear Sir:—I have one of the Albion Spring Tooth Sulkey Harrows, Cultivators and Broadcast Seeders. I am well pleased with it and would not exchange it for any similar tool.

WM. GOCH.

GEO. D. WEAREN, ESQ.—Dear Sir:—I used one of the Albion Combined Spring Tooth Harrows and Broadcast Seeders in putting in my wheat this Fall, and do not hesitate to say that it did the work perfectly.

C. T. SANDIDGE.

GEO. D. WEAREN.—Dear Sir:—We bought of you a Spring Tooth Sulkey Harrow and Broadcast Seeder, and after having used it in seeding wheat in foul stalk land, we are free to say that the implement is a good one and gives satisfaction. We regard it superior to any Drill and a perfect success as a Harrow and pulverizer.

R. W. GIVENS & SON.

MR. GEO. D. WEAREN.—Dear Sir:—I am pleased with my Albion Spring Tooth Harrow and Broadcast Seeder; think it is much better and answers many more purposes than a Drill.

JOHN BUCHANAN.

GEO. D. WEAREN.—Dear Sir:—Have tested your Albion Seeder on clean, plowed land and on the foulest stalk land. It gives better satisfaction than any implement ever used in foul land.

A. K. DENNY.

GEO. D. WEAREN.—Dear Sir:—I have used one of the above mentioned Seeders, and heartily endorse the statement of Mr. Denny.

J. A. DEPAUW.

GEO. D. WEAREN.—Dear Sir:—The Albion Combined Spring Tooth Harrow, Cultivator and Broadcast Seeder is all and even more than you claim for it. I have sown 50 acres of wheat this season in fifty corn land, and it does its work well where no other machine would work at all. My son Jimmie, who is 12 years old, ran the machine all the time, using a team of comparatively small horses, and found no difficulty. I cheerfully recommend it to my farmer friends, for I know a fair trial will convince them of its usefulness eight months in the year.

JOHN P. BAILEY.

GEO. D. WEAREN.—Dear Sir:—Each one of us having purchased of you one of your Albion Spring Tooth Sulkey Harrows and Broadcast Seeders, we take pleasure in saying that they have given us entire satisfaction and done all that you claimed for them. Prefer them to any wheat Drill we have seen. Sows the wheat evenly and leaves none exposed on the surface; also regard the tool superior to any other as a pulverizer and believe they will prove valuable as Cultivators.

C. VANOV,
SHANKS SPOONMORE.
